2020 AAPA Leadership Fellows

Marissa Floro, Ph.D.
Dr. Floro earned her Ph.D. in Counseling Psychology from Loyola University Chicago. She is the manager of the Weiland program at Stanford University. In this role, Dr. Floro works to center the experiences of queer, trans, and gender non-conforming folx in clinical services and programming. In addition, she co-created dialogue spaces and resources for AAPI folx fighting anti-Blackness, and produced student affairs website content regarding AAPI Harassment during Covid-19.

Pa Her, Ph.D.
Dr. Her earned her Ph.D. in Counseling Psychology from the University of Wisconsin-Madison, where she is currently a Clinical Assistant Professor. While in graduate school, she was the student lead for the Hmong Research Team, and co-created the Empowering You conference for students of color. She also brings past experiences as an academic advisor and peer mentor director serving underrepresented first- and second-year university students.

Sunny Ho, Ph.D.
Dr. Ho earned his Ph.D. in Counseling Psychology from the University of Iowa. He is a staff psychologist at the Seton Hall University Counseling and Psychology Services. He is a member of the AAPA Education and Training committee, and the past co-editor in chief of the AAPA Newsletter Team. He brings experiences and passion for supporting international students.
